

Name SURNAME:
Function:	Head of Department/Research Manager
Institution:	Norwegian Institute of Bioeconomy Research (NIBIO) <input type="checkbox"/> Funding Agency <input type="checkbox"/> Programme Manager
Email:	Trine.eggen@nibio.no
Phone:	+47 90997074
Division	Environment and Natural Resources
Areas of Expertise:
Her expertise is fate of contaminants in the environment and treatment technologies, including plant uptake of contaminants. She is an experienced project manager and has published 19 papers and 2 book chapters within the field transformation and remediation of pollutants, including plant uptake and environmental modelling. She is a Member of Norwegian Scientific Committee for Food Safety (VKM) and has contributed to food risk assessments, e.g. regarding use of sewage sludge in agriculture.
Short Description of your Institution:
NIBIO (www.nibio.no) is a research institute owned by the Ministry of Agriculture and Food as an administrative agency with special authorization and its own supervisory board, and around 700 employees present in all parts of the country. The goal of the Institute is to contribute to food security, sustainable resource management, innovation and value creation through research and knowledge production within food, forestry and other biobased industries. Research at NIBIO includes for instance agricultural runoff, pesticide analysis and environmental fate, remediation methods.
Role in the project:

Date,